You are here Article 5.0 Essay for International Programs If I had to choose one word to describe my experience at Wesleyan, it would have to be "engaged." As a first-year, I knew that Wesleyan prepared its students for the challenges of the Real World. However, I could not have imagined what those challenges would be or how engaging they would be. At Wesleyan, I felt that everyone was willing to listen to my opinions and to teach me about not only politics, but also to teach me about my own beliefs. As an intern and as a member of student government, I had the opportunity to impact my immediate community and national politics. And through classes such as Introduction to Public Policy and Introduction to Christian Ethics, I had the chance to learn more about the world at large, and to discover how my personal views correlate with world events. Even the most mundane of classes taught me more than the most challenging. As a resident assistant, I gained an opportunity to put into practice what I had been learning in all of my classes. My experience has been one of learning, but it has not been one of simply learning. At Wesleyan, I have learned how to seek, and how to find. I have learned how to become critical in my thinking and in my actions. The courses I have taken have enabled me to discover what it is that I value in myself and in the world around me. I have learned to ask questions and to gain inspiration from those who have stood with me before in trying times. I have learned that my future is limitless and

Q: How can I increment an NSString with every time the button is pressed? I have a button and I want to increment the number inside the string to a higher number each time the button is pressed. Currently, this is what I have.

@IBAction func bind(sender: AnyObject) { var binding =
NSStringFromNSString(self.doneBut.titleLabel!.text) println(binding) } A: In Swift 3, change the declare of binding to: var binding: String Update the @IBAction binding to this. @IBAction func bind(sender: AnyObject) { binding =
NSStringFromNSString(self.doneBut.titleLabel!.text)
println(binding) }

As mentioned in the comment by @LarmeSauvage, the binding
